Add-on courses are additionally offered courses that college offers to help students advance their knowledge, develop their skills, and raise their academic standing. Two subjects—fashion design and Communicative English—are available as add-on courses. Any student who successfully completes a full year of an additional course and passes the examination is awarded a certificate for that specific course. A "Diploma" in that exact topic is awarded to the student who successfully completes two years of coursework in that subject and passes the exam. Similar to this, an "Advanced Diploma" is granted following three years of enrolment in the same additional course and successful completion of a test.

These courses can be chosen in addition to the B.A., BCA, BBA, and B.Com undergraduate programmes. At any point during their degree program, students are free to choose to enroll in any certificate program or add-on course. After completing a certificate program, students are eligible to appear for the diploma and advanced diploma exams.

Add-on classes are rescheduled within the college time table. Along with their coursework, students receive excellent guidance for their future endeavours. During their enrolled, they become familiar with computer-aided design tools. In addition, students are given practical experience through trips to industries.

The library has the journals and magazines for both of the supplemental courses.

Using effective teaching strategies enhances student learning

- i. Making use of visual aids
- ii. Running unexpected tests
- iii. In order to provide more individualized attention, smaller practical groups are formed.
- iv. Quiz contests are conducted in the classroom to inform pupils about new advancements in the topic matter.
- v. In the practical classes, demonstrations are given.
- vi. Students that struggle academically receive extra help to help them become more competent and to improve the overall outcome.
- vii. Discussion groups
- viii. Student projects and assignments
- ix. Questions and answers sessions
- x. Motivating pupils to read electronic journals and journals
- xi. Library visits can enhance students' learning
