Activity: Exploring Punjab's Heritage: An Educational Trip

Activity Details: Under the aegis of IQAC, the Department of Computer Science and Applications of GNKCW organized an educational trip for BCA first-year and PGDCA students to delve into the cultural, historical, and ecological facets of Punjab on August 11, 2023. The excursion included visits to the Museum of Social History and Rural Life of Punjab, a herbal garden, and a museum dedicated to water and power resources of Northern India located at Punjab Agricultural University, Ludhiana.

The day commenced with a visit to the Museum of Social History and Rural Life of Punjab, offering an immersive experience into the heritage of the region. The students had the opportunity to witness the evolution of rural life, traditions, and practices that have contributed to Punjab's identity.

Continuing the educational journey, the students explored a captivating herbal garden on the University campus. Guided by experts, they learned about the significance of local plants in traditional medicine and gained insights into their healing properties. The educational tour culminated at a museum focused on water and power resources of Northern India. Through interactive exhibits and informative displays, the students gained a deeper understanding of how these resources have been harnessed to shape the landscape and sustain communities in the region.

Ms. Daisy Wadhwa and Ms. Harpreet Kaur, faculty members of Computer Science department accompanied students on this excursion. The college Principal Dr. Maneeta Kahlon expressed the college's commitment to providing students with holistic learning experiences beyond the classroom. "This trip was designed to foster a deeper connection with Punjab's heritage and natural resources."

The educational trip received praise from both students and faculty members, highlighting the importance of experiential learning in enhancing students' understanding. Such initiatives contribute to a well-rounded education that goes beyond textbooks and theoretical knowledge.

Activity: Workshop on Language Learning Apps

Activity Details: Under the aegis of the Internal Quality Assurance Cell, the Department of Computer Science and Applications at Guru Nanak Khalsa College for Women, Model Town, Ludhiana, organized an engaging and informative workshop on Language Learning Apps today. The event was conducted with the central theme of 'Use of tech-savvy tools for learning languages' and was led by Ms. Daisy Wadhwa, the Head of the Computer Science Department and Ms. Satwant Kaur, Assistant Professor, Department of Computer Science.

The workshop served as a prelude to the forthcoming 'Bhartiya Bhasha Diwas,' a day dedicated to celebrating the linguistic diversity of our nation. This initiative aimed to emphasize the importance of language learning through innovative and technological means.

The workshop included a myriad of interactive activities, providing participants with a unique opportunity to explore and embrace the diversity of Indian languages. Attendees learned essential greetings and phrases in different Indian languages, enhancing their cross-cultural communication skills. A significant highlight of the workshop was the introduction to the popular language-learning apps. Participants were guided through the apps features and how they can be effectively employed as dynamic tools for language learning.

Speaking on the occasion, Principal Dr. Maneeta Kahlon highlighted that, "Language is a powerful vehicle for cultural exchange, and its diverse forms are the bedrock of our nation's identity. This workshop reflects our commitment to equipping our students with the knowledge and skills to thrive in a multicultural world."
